FREIGHT RATES ON HAY AND WHEAT LOWERED

NEW DECISION AFFECTS ONLY WEST SECTION

I. C. C. Declares Rates Unjust and Unreasonable—Is First Step.

TO SPREAD EAST

Ruling Reduces By Half Increases Granted August 26, 1920.

The decision of the commission in effect reduces by one half the rate increases on wheat and hay which were granted on August 26, 1920. The decision reduces by 10 per cent the increases on coarse grains rates that were granted on the same date.

The commission's decision while effective only in the western and mountain Pacific regions, gives notice that similar reductions may be found just in eastern territory.

The commission's decision said: "We find that the present rates on wheat and hay involved here-in will be for the future unjust and unreasonable to the extent that they may exceed rates 10 per cent less than those herein prescribed as just and reasonable on wheat from and to the same points."

(This is the case under which the I. C. C. granted rate increases August 26, 1920.)

"We further find that the present rates on coarse grains will be for the future unjust and unreasonable to the extent that they may exceed rates 10 per cent less than those herein prescribed as just and reasonable on wheat from and to the same points."

"We further find that the rates on commodities recognized as products of the future unjust and unreasonable to the extent that they exceed rates that would be made by continuing the relationships that now exist except that where differentials are observed and were subjected to the percentage increases the differentials should be reduced proportionately with the rate. "The reduction in rates here required may make desirable some reductions in rates east of western district particularly interstate in Illinois."

DEFEAT ADMITTED BY LENINE WHO EXPLAINS RETREAT

Righ, Oct. 22.—After a long rest in the country, Premier Nikolai Lenine of Soviet Russia, has returned to the political arena with an open admission of Communism's defeat, according to an account of a speech recently made before the Congress of Political Workers in Moscow, given out by the official Bolshevik news disseminator.

"Our new economic policy, in substance, follows from the fact that we have suffered a strong defeat and have begun a strategic retreat," he declared. "Before we are defeated finally, let us stop back and form anew, but on a stronger base. "Everybody sees what a sharp turn the Soviet Powers and the Communist party have taken by adopting a new economic policy, which, in substance, contains more of the old regime than of our previous policy. The attitude of the Soviet toward economic questions during the first half of 1918, when the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty gave hope of peaceful construction, was extraordinarily cautious. The necessity of considering the peasants always was pointed out then, and the role of state capitalism in socialistic construction was considered."

"The Civil War that followed and the desperate position in which the republic found itself to be compelled us to change directly to communist production and distribution. However, a brief experience convinced us that without a period of socialistic adjustment and investigation it was not possible to reach even the lowest steps of Communism."

"There can be no doubt that on the economic front, in the attempt to go over to Communism toward the spring of 1921 we suffered a defeat more serious than any we had experienced. This showed that our economic policies failed to have their feet on the ground and did not lead to that increase of productive powers that was recognized in the party program as being fundamental and urgent."

"Requisitions in villages and a direct Communist approach to construction problems in the cities retarded the elevation of our production problems in the cities retarded the elevation of our production powers and were the cause of a deep economic and political crisis. We recognized defeat and retreated, and the retreat is continuing in many places."

Mrs. William Alford

Only a few months ago Mrs. William V. Alford, formerly a school teacher in Ohio, returned from a honeymoon trip through Peru, in the course of which she crossed the Andes on muleback, and penetrated to the headwaters of the Amazon, after traversing country inhabited by tribes of savage Indians, one of which was said to practice cannibalism. Now she is en route to China in search of further thrills, which she hopes to obtain during trips of exploration in the northern provinces and in Manchuria and Tibet. With her husband, an engineer, employed by the Chinese Government, she sailed from Seattle and expects to remain in the Orient three years.

ALLEGED "POISON QUEEN" ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Erminia Colvaito Found Not Guilty of Kaber Murder

Cleveland, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Erminia Calavito, alleged "poison queen" indicted upon a charge of alleged complicity in the murder of Daniel K. Kaber, wealthy Cleveland publisher, in July 1919, is free today. A jury in Judge Dan B. Cullis court found her not guilty late last night after six hours deliberation.

"The verdict is a travesty on justice," declared Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton.

When the verdict was returned Mrs. Colvaito embraced Patsy Guida, a friend who has been a daily visitor at the jail since her imprisonment and who employed lawyers to defend her.

Mrs. Colvaito was indicted by the grand jury last June following the indictment of Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaber, her mother, Mrs. Mary Brickel; Marian McArdle, a daughter of Mrs. Kaber and Salvatore Gala and Vittorio Pisselli, who are said to have stabbed the invalid publisher as he slept.

Mrs. Kaber is serving a life sentence in Marysville reformatory. Calavito is serving a like term in the Ohio penitentiary; Marian McArdle has been freed; Mrs. Brickel is out on bond and steps will be taken to test her sanity, while Pisselli has not yet been apprehended.

U. S. STEEL CUTS PRICE OF RAILS 7 DOLLARS TON

Gary Says Move Will Have Beneficial Results On Costs.

New York, Oct. 22.—The United States Steel corporation today announced a reduction in the price of its standard rails of $7 a ton. In a statement issued by Judge Gary, chairman of the board of directors it was announced that although the present costs of production do not justify this step it was hoped that the reduction together with expected reductions in freight rates will have a beneficial effect upon costs.

The following statement was issued: "We have decided to recommend that our subsidiary companies reduce the selling price of standard rails to $40 per ton base, f. o. b. our mills. Present costs of production do not justify this action but it is hoped and expected reductions in freight rates and otherwise, together with larger operations will soon have a beneficial effect upon our costs."

The present price of rails is $47 a ton.

ARREST WOMAN IN CONNECTION WITH RED PLOT

Light May Be Thrown On Herrick Affair Following Late Outrage

ANOTHER BOMB FLUNG

Handgrenade Hurlled at Detachment of Police Following Meeting.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The arrest of a woman communist in connection with the bomb outrage at Wagram Hall last night during an anti-American mass meeting has led to important revelations which may throw light upon the attempts to assassinate Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador the Petit Parisien stated today.

Following the woman's arrest her home was searched and the police found a number of important documents which had been exchanged between communist and anarchist groups. The police refused to reveal the contents of the papers.

So far, however, no arrest has been made on the direct charge of attempting to murder the American diplomat. The police have diligently combed the haunts of communists and many well-known reds have been questioned. Practically all the communists contend that the bomb outrage at the residence of Ambassador Herrick was the work of an individual and not part of the general European "terrorist plot" to frighten American diplomats into demanding that their government release the two Italians in Massachusetts whose conviction on a murder charge brought about all the agitations—Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

The hand grenade which was hurled at a detachment of police at the conclusion of the communist mass meeting at Wagram Hall and which wounded two was of the same type that had been sent to Ambassador Herrick earlier in the week in the opinion of explosives experts.

A group of gendarmes was engaged in splitting up the great crowd into sections when some one in the mob of 8,000 threw the bomb. It was a miracle that many were not killed. Panic followed. The crowd scattered with yells of fright and in the melee many persons were knocked down and trampled. The police restored order and cordons were immediately established in all nearby streets to question all passersby. More than 20 arrests were made.

WILL PROSECUTE OHIO PROMOTERS OF FAKE STOCKS

Columbus, Oct. 22.—Criminal prosecution will be started soon in several counties against promoters whose operations are alleged to have fleeced the people of Ohio out of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 during the past year, according to an announcement at the office of Governor Harry C. Davis.

Action already has been started to prosecute officials of six companies, a dozen other cases are said to be ready for prosecution and the activities of at least 200 are being investigated, the Executive Office announced.

"In the 200 cases there is reason to believe that at least 75 per cent involve law violation and that prosecution will follow," the announcement or both. In many cases, it "All this evidence, we anticipate, will be transmitted to Prosecuting Attorneys in their respective counties and will be made the subject of grand jury action."

More than $200,000,000 has been lost by Ohioans in the last three years in investing in fake stocks, according to W. H. Phipps, State Director of Commerce, who inaugurated the investigation.

The statement issued by the Governor's office pointed out that the penalties for violations of the Ohio blue sky law range from $100 to $500 in fines or a year's imprisonment or both. In many cases, it was pointed out, the offenses have amounted to embezzlement and therefore are subject to a more severe penalty.

No Wage Cuts And Strike Withheld Says Government

Administration Awaits Result of Conference Next Wednesday—National Defense Act Will Not Be Invoked—Board Given Full Responsibility.

Washington, Oct. 22.—President Harding, having placed the responsibility for averting the threatened transportation tie-up squarely upon the shoulders of the U. S. Railway Labor Board, today entered upon a "watchful waiting" policy which will continue until a decision is reached in the anti-strike conference which opens Wednesday in Chicago. The government's plan for averting the strike now stands as follows:

1.—The railroad labor board will insist that the railway executives agree to withhold their demands for further wage reductions and that the chiefs of the big four unions withdraw their orders for a progressive walk out to begin Oct. 30.

2.—Failure of the labor board to secure concessions from the contending groups probably would be followed by the shifting of the controversy to the U. S. board of mediation and conciliation a bureau of the department of labor.

3.—The national defense act which remains in effect until the formal declaration of peace and other drastic war time laws will not be invoked by the president to prevent an interruption of interstate commerce in the event of a strike. If it becomes imperative for the government to act through the courts to keep food, fuel and other necessities moving, only civil laws such as the injunction would be used.

4.—The I. C. C. will order substantial reduction of freight rates important products and commodities acting in part upon the labor board's recommendation that such decreases should be the normal result of latest railroad wage cuts.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Latest statistics of naval establishments of the world leading maritime powers, compiled by informed officials here, indicate that the American navy still will be established in second place when building programs now under way are completed.

According to the tabulation of fighting ships, Great Britain leads, with 533 ships, with an aggregate tonnage of 1,860,480; the United States has 464 ships of 1,298,493 tons and Japan 99 of 528,689 tons.

France and Italy hold third and fourth positions, with fighting tonnage totaling 462,000 and 275,000, respectively.

Completion of present programs will add 17 ships to the British navy, or 199,380 tons, 69 to the American with a total of 734,928 tons and 85 to the Japanese, of 805,188 tons, exclusive of a special submarine program comprising 120 submarines.

Lacking definite information as to speed and gunpower of units included in latest authorized naval programs, experts here pointed out that a comparison of "battle efficiency" was difficult if not practically impossible.

RETURN OF ARMY ON RHINE BEGINS

Washington, Oct. 22.—In accordance with the administration policy for the return of the American army of occupation on the Rhine, Secretary of War Weeks, today announced that orders have been given for the return to the United States of 126 officers and 7,873 enlisted men. This will leave 372 officers and 5,217 enlisted men in Germany. No decision has been reached as to when these forces will be returned.

The forces ordered home will be brought back between November 15 and March 15, two transports being assigned to this work. Men having the shortest time to serve in completing their enlistment will be brought home first.

RAIL STRIKE ACTION NOW AWAITS OUTCOME OF BOARD'S MEETING

Executives of A. F. O. L. Announce That 1,500,000 Workers Whom They Represent Will Not Strike October 30—Charge Brotherhoods With Bluffing.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Acting on information which they declare gives them ground for belief that the strike ordered by the "big four" brotherhoods October 30 will be called off, executives of the railroad unions in the American Federation of Labor announced today that the 1,500,000 railroad workers whom they represent will defer strike action at this time.

They charged that the brotherhoods action has been a "bluff" from the first and that the other unions refuse to "play their game."

In event the October 30 walkout materializes, they declared the railroad unions representing more than two thirds of the railroad workers will not follow the brotherhoods unless they have an iron clad agreement of joint action which will insure that no one group will make separate settlement until the demands of all are satisfied.

San Antonio, Oct. 22.—When the noon whistles blew today six hundred yardmen and brakemen members of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen employed by the International and Great Northern walked out on strike.

The strike was put into effect despite instructions from the U. S. Labor board ordering the men to remain at their posts until after the meeting between the union leaders and railroad chiefs in Chicago Wednesday.

"W. G. Lee is our boss and we are following out his orders," R. D. Frame, chairman of the Union on the I. & G. N. system said.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The railroad shophmen will not join in the strike called by the "big four" brotherhoods and the switchmen, it was authoritatively learned today. Official announcement of the decision of the shophmen not to strike at present will be made during the day, it was expected.

Executives of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor which includes the shophmen, reported this decision after a week of discussion. A meeting of the general chairman is scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon and it is expected that B. M. Jewell, president of the department will announce that his organization will not strike at this time and will issue a public statement.

The decision of the shophmen to refrain from striking makes the strike, if one is called, strictly a brotherhood affair. Although the maintenance of way employees and one or two other unions have voted in favor of a strike, it is considered certain that they will defer action on the view of the position taken by the shophmen.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The "status quo" of the railway labor situation was in the spot light today.

Keen interest was being taken here in whether the railroads and the union leaders would comply strictly with the orders of the U. S. Railway Labor Board to maintain strike affairs in their present status, or would flout the authority of the board and proceed with strike plans.

The order of the board yesterday which cited both the rail chiefs and the union leaders to appear next Wednesday for a hearing on whether the "recent wage cut decision of the board is being violated through the calling of a strike virtually forbade the strike. It likewise is tantamount to an order that no further plans for the strike scheduled for Oct. 30 shall be formulated. It directs both the railroads and the unions to maintain the "status quo."

One of the developments that was being watched with greatest interest was the strike scheduled to take place today on the International Great Northern, a Texas road, where six hundred trainmen have announced they will walk out. The walk out will be technical defiance of the labor board's order.

Executives of the railroads have announced that they will drop all plans for combating the strike and await the outcome of the conference here next Wednesday. The meeting of the western railroad executives here yesterday voted compliance with the board's order. Heads of the brotherhoods also according to reports from Cleveland have declared they will comply with the citation of the board but there were reports in railroad circles that the brotherhoods chiefs did not intend to halt completely the strike plans which they have been formulating since the failure of their conference with the labor board here on Thursday to avert the strike.

The only indication of defiance on the part of the roads was seen in the action of the Tremont and Gulf railroad, a 66 mile logging line in Louisiana of which J. Stanley Joyce, the Chicago millionaire who is being sued for breach by Peggy Hopkins Joyce, is the president. This road placed an "open shop" order in effect last night. The labor board peremptorily ordered cancellation of the open shop plan but no word has been received today as to whether the road had obeyed the board's mandate.

There was a disposition in official circles here today to be optimistic with regard to the last move of the labor board to avert the strike.

It was pointed out that the board has authority to summon before it at any time whom ever it pleases and failure to comply is punishable by contempt of court proceedings. It

UNION CIRCLES ARE SKEPTICAL OF CONFERENCE

Belief Expressed That Meeting Next Wednesday Will Fail.

CONDITIONS CHANGE

Rails Cannot Crush the Unions, Declare Leaders Of Employees.

Cleveland, Oct. 22.—Belief that the conference of railway executives "big four" union leaders and the railway labor board in Chicago next Wednesday would prove unavailing to stop the threatened nation-wide railway labor strike scheduled for Oct. 30, was expressed in union circles here today.

While union executives refused to be directly quoted, it was pointed out that before the strike call had been sent out from Chicago all possibilities had been canvassed carefully, and that legally the unions were sure of their ground.

Conditions had materially changed it is said, since the United States government had intervened by injunction to prevent the strike of union coal miners in the fall of 1919. At that time war legislation, hampering the movements of unions engaged in serving the public needs was in effect, and the government had utilized these powers to the full extent possible.

Yesterday's announcement from Washington that these powers would not be exercised, even though their use might prove practicable, had the effect of clearing the air here, and it was said positively that definite proposals satisfactory to the unions must be made if the strike is to be averted.

"The railroads cannot crush the unions," was the consensus expressed by the leaders here today, after a night's study of the call of the labor board and while all will attend with alacrity the call of the government expressed through the labor board, it was said they would go as equals to confer to peace and not as criminals to answer for defiance against the power of the government.

The right of a man or a group of men to quit their employment cannot be questioned, it was stated, and this right has been clearly defined in decisions by the U. S. Supreme court.

STATE LIBRARY BOARD SELECTED

The new board which succeeds the old board which was abolished by the Dunn act, providing for reorganization of state departments will soon name a successor to State Librarian J. H. Newman, Democrat, it was stated.

COMMITTEE WILL INVESTIGATE PHONE MERGER IS WORD

A committee appointed by the Springfield city administration has started an investigation of the merger of the Ohio Bell and the Springfield and Xenia telephone companies and the proposed rate increase under the unified service.

The Ohio Bell company has been asked, as the first step in the investigation, to furnish a statement showing the appraised value of the two companies separately, their revenues and operating expenses and a statement why they think an increase in rate should be granted for the unified service.

Two more steps in the unification program were taken Friday, when the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company and the Middletown Telephone company filed petitions with state utilities commission at Columbus to sell and the Ohio Bell company petitioned to buy the properties. The Chesapeake and Potomac operates in 12 eastern Ohio counties and will be sold for $3,231,784.78. The Middletown telephone company operates in Butler county only and the purchase price is $240,121.12.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

The Markets

STOCKS

Definite announcement of the railroad strike did not produce heavy liquidation in the stock market, which demonstrated its underlying strength. Traders felt that the strike is foredoomed to failure. Nevertheless any rising tendency has been promptly checked by bearish factors mainly of a transient nature. One commission house characterizes present trading as in "the dull, ragged stages of a convalescent market" with day-to-day fluctuations difficult to forecast. There is no indication of a change in trend, or rather the development of a decisive trend, and the market will continue dull and professional until events of some importance occur or strong tendencies make themselves manifest.

GRAIN

The bear has been rampant in the grain market, notwithstanding temporary gains. The threatened railroad strike and fear of a financial crash in Germany have surrounded trading with an atmosphere of doubt and hesitation, forcing wheat and corn to new low points for the season recently. The government report on wheat stocks on the farm was construed variously. The visible supply continues to grow and is much in excess of last year. Grain loadings have declined and are less than last year on most roads. A bulge was due to follow the extreme depression which attended the announcement of the rail strike, but for the present only a trading market with rapid fluctuations is expected.

LIVESTOCK

Retailers are at last giving consumers part of the benefit of price reductions in meat at wholesale. This may stimulate demand and, by widening the outlet, strengthen prices for stuff at the Chicago yards. The stock growers' finance corporation, formed by the bankers, has already loaned a substantial amount to the growers, and with the War Finance corporation, is paving the way to better times in the livestock industry. The restrictions upon export trade are prohibitive of high prices for meat products. If the railroad strike becomes effective, it will very largely demoralize the market, making different grades difficult to quote.

COTTON

The weakness in the market the railroad strike threat and the slump in grains have offered little support to the cotton market. Weather in the South has been mainly favorable to an increase of the crop over late estimates. More cotton was consumed in September than in the same month a year ago. Cotton on hand September 30 exceeded last year's stocks by more than 1,600,000 bales. September exports, on the other hand were more than doubled those of a year ago. The market has underlying strength, but troubled industrial conditions hold it in restraint, and the public has shown its aversion to higher prices on cotton goods than now prevail.

WOOL

Demand for wool has been sufficient to keep prices firm. Foreign markets have shown an advancing tendency. Fine staple wools in this country are due for an advance because of their scarcity, think many traders. The government will hold another auction on Nov. 8. The American Woolen Co. reports 96 per cent of its loomage active.

METALS

The steel industry has not maintaining of grain, while causing temporary hardship to the farmer who is short of cash. A large portion of the crop has already left the farms but grain is still moving freely. Livestock shipments would suffer most, as livestock must go direct to market if the animals are to arrive in good condition. Cattle cars cannot stand long on sidings or suffer the other vicissitudes of a rail strike.

That the great Northwest is still predominately agricultural, despite the rapid rise of its manufacturing industries, appears from an interesting report made by the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis. About four-fifths of its natural products and nearly one-half of its manufactured commodities are destined ultimately for the table as food. The bank finds that wheat has declined 42 per cent in this district within the year, corn 63 per cent, livestock 30 to 57 per cent, hay 30 per cent, and wool 38 per cent. Potatoes advanced 20 per cent. Compare reductions in the whole sale price of flour amounting to 35 per cent with its recent gains at all points but in the main the movement is

TRY THIS FOR INDIGESTION

Foley Cathartic Tablets are just the thing for constipation. Their action is wholesome and thoroughly cleansing, without griping, nausea or inconvenience. They banish headache, biliousness, bloating, gas, bad breath, coated tongue and the other symptoms of disordered digestion. Mrs. H. J. Marchard, 36 Lawrence St., Salem, Mass., writes: "I used Foley Cathartic Tablets for constipation with good results. I keep them in the house." Sayre & Hamphill.

steady, if slow, and the tone is reasonably cheerful. The rail strike threat did not throw the industry into confusion or materially alter the rate of shipments. Consumers were inclined to hesitate about ordering for future requirements, pending a settlement of the controversy. Export trade in iron and steel is dull.

AGRICULTURE

That most farmers do not feel a great deal of sympathy with the threatened railroad strike is a fair guess. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace truthfully says that either farm prices must advance or other prices, including transportation charges, must decline. Prosperity cannot be restored by legislative enactment or administrative dictum. Farmers know that freight rates cannot fall far unless wages move in harmony.

A general strike would arrest the grain movement and by so doing might put money into the farmer's pocket as he is almost certain to get more for his grain three to six months hence than he is getting now. The strike would enforce hold-cent, in lumber at 42 per cent, in foundry and machine shop products possibly 40 per cent, in textiles and wearing apparel from 25 to 50 per cent, in linseed oil 36 per cent and in paints 29 per cent. Manufactured articles have unquestionably yielded to the pressure which has been exerted on all commodities and yielded generously. The cost of living is materially lower than a year ago despite the statements of labor that price reductions do not justify reduction in wages. Retail food prices have dropped 23 per cent within the year. But this does not mean that prices are in line, nor controvert the widely held belief that farm prices have suffered unduly.

The Old Adage And the New AD-AGE

THE old adage reads: "If a man write a better book or make a mousetrap better than his neighbor, though he build his house in the midst of the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

THE new "ad-age" proves that this is not altogether true—having demonstrated absolutely that an article of less merit intelligently and persistently advertised will bring speedy and certain sales while the really superior article, without newspaper publicity, will be forgotten and uncalled for. The reason for this is plan—the superior article is unknown and has no market.

THE public has been trained to respond to the appeal of the advertiser and estimate the merit of an article through the prestige and confidence established in the past by persistent and reliable advertising methods.

TWENTY years ago any one predicting the colossal aggregate of business obtained by the mail-order houses through advertising would have been called an idle dreamer.

NOT only are the sales of catalog houses amazing, but it is established that fully 50 per cent of one-half of this business was promoted and secured simply by alluring descriptive suggestions—creating the desire and effecting final purchase by the prospective buyer of merchandise he had no previous intention of buying and of which he had no accurate knowledge.

WHEN Xenia merchants stop to consider that this stupendous business was obtained purely and simply by advertising alone—without the advantages of personal contact, at a cost per family of approximately $3.00 a year to the catalog house as against a few cents spent by the local merchants to keep it at home, they must realize that to combat successfully the big mail-order house they must use the same weapons—intelligent and persistent advertising in the newspapers covering their trading territory.

The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican cover the trading territory of Greene County merchants completely and entirely.

LOCAL ROTARY CLUB PLEDGES FINANCIAL AID FOR SCHOOL

Impressed by the explanation given them by Mrs. D. W. Cherry of the work being accomplished by the Opportunity School which is being conducted in Christ Church Parish House on Whiteman Street, Xenia Rotarians, at their noonday luncheon, Friday, pledged financial support to the school and appointed a committee to take charge of plans for that charity.

Mrs. Cherry, whose duties as president of the Mothers' Circle of Central school bring her into intimate contact with the work of the Opportunity School surprised the Rotarians with the details she gave of the work being done for the 1426 students, and the results accomplished.

She displayed wooden toys hand-carved by the young folks from old store boxes chiefly with tools discarded by the manual training departments of the other schools, and rugs woven by them on their hand loom.

She was given several orders by Rotarians present, for toys to be made by the children. Mrs. Cherry explained that orders will be taken for toys and rugs, and for the rocaning of chair bottoms by the children. The children also make toy furniture. They are taught to do simple sewing, darning, and they prepare and serve the meals which the children receive at the school each noon. The school will also take orders for darning. Mrs. Cherry explained.

The school, said Mrs. Cherry, is serving an average of forty warm luncheons each day, at a cost of six cents each to the children.

Mrs. Cherry explained that in time it is hoped the school will become self supporting. The Mothers' Circle pledged $200 this year toward the support of the school, and the Rotarians have agreed to give it any further financial assistance.

REPEAL OF EIGHT HOUR LAW WOULD LEAVE RAIL SITUATION WHERE IT IS

Cleveland, Oct. 23.—Repeal of the Adamson law providing a basic eight-hour day in railroad service which was advocated "by professional economists, certain congressmen and all employers," would leave "the railway situation exactly where it is" said W. G. Lee, president of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen in a statement issued today.

"Regardless of opinion to the contrary that the shorter work day establishes the maximum of a day's service, that is not the fact," Lee said. "It simply fixes the measure of the minimum day's service on which the hourly rate, making up the daily rate is based. The law does not prevent working more than eight hours a day."

Railroad organizations, he stated, regardless of opinion to the contrary, did not have anything to do with the enactment of the Adamson law, but on the contrary its enactment was due to the insistence of business interests of the country which were profiting from the trouble in Europe and did not want their profits disturbed, together with the agricultural interests that represented to President Wilson the losses that would have to be by them in the event of a strike.

These bodies of citizens are declared to have used their combined influence to have the president intervene. "There was no war in the United States except the waged by profiteers against the public," the statement says "Suspension of traffic at that time would have had nothing to do with the later participation of this country in the European war. It was business, as represented by the agricultural, industrial and financial interests that combined to urge the president to do what he did to avert traffic suspension."

The eight hour day is not operative in train service except on such freight trains as are not run more than 100 miles, it was said. A freight service is based on an average speed of 12 1/2 miles per hour, 100 miles or less for a day's service. However if freight runs are extended beyond 100 miles the miles and hours must be worked out on a mileage basis before the train crews go into time and one half."

A repeal of the eight hour law therefore, it was said, "would not change the situation in the least, so far as the daily rates of wage is concerned," unless the railroad companies "could compel their own men to give 10 hours service for the present eight hours pay which is hardly believable."

"Railroad propaganda," Lee concluded, has succeeded in blinding the eyes of the people to the actual wages and service conditions in operation on our American railroads and this has been increased by the demand for the repeal of the Adamson law."

RAILROAD FUNDING BILL TAKES FIRST STEP TOWARD GOAL

Washington, Oct. 22.—The railroad funding bill giving the administration authority to extend $500,000,000 credit to the railroads took its first step toward passage today when the senate interstate commerce committee ordered it favorably reported.

The committee however sent the bill to the senate with an amendment which would deny the roads any compensation for the so-called "inefficiency of labor" during the period of federal control. The roads made claims against the government aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars for this alleged deterioration of service and morale none of which have ever been paid.

The bill, as it was reported out today after a stormy session of the committee behind closed doors, alters materially the original bill as it was passed by the house on August 22.

The amendment prohibiting payment of the claims for "inefficiency of labor" was one of a series, sponsored by Senator Cummins, Republican, Iowa, co-author of the present transportation act.

Captain Tripp's return to the team is a boon to the prospects of the locals, and while they are not anticipating an easy time with the Lincoln lads, they are hoping to win. BRYCE DEPRECATES FEAR OF JAPANESE IN AMERICA.

Americans are apprehensive of Japanese aggression, says Viscount James Bryce, former British Ambassador at Washington, in an article printed in the London Times. Mr. Bryce reviews the popular attitude of America toward the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments, as he observed it during his recent visit to the United States, and declares Americans hold the opinion that the Anglo-Japanese treaty encourages Japanese to take an aggressive attitude.

Viscount Bryce deprecates the fear of the Japanese, and says, among other things, that the Japanese in California are not numerous enough to be a danger, although they are clannish and progressive.

"Californians," he goes on, "have the same sort of dislike for them which the rougher part of the wage-earning class everywhere has for strangers who, while competing for work, are dissimilar in habits and aspect."

"The irritation against the Japanese is sedulously fostered and diffused by the press, and it receives some support from its association with the fear of the so-called yellow races which was encouraged by the former Kaiser. Some American writers have even warned California to beware of a Japanese invasion, although every one, at this time and day, might be expected to know what would befall a fleet and army arriving on a hostile coast after a voyage of many thousands of miles, occupying more than three weeks."

The writer says that nine out of ten Americans seem to believe England is the exclusive ally of Japan, and that the Anglo-Japanese treaty makes the Tokio Government think it has a free hand to adopt policies of aggression upon which it would otherwise fear to embark.

"Explanations do not seem likely to remove this impression from the American mind," he continues, "even when Englishmen point out that their own interests in China are identical with those of Americans, and that Japanese ascendancy in Manchuria would be as injurious to Great Britain as to the United States."

PRESIDENT HARDING NO PESSIMIST—AND WE SAY "GOOD."

President Harding in the midst of the great problems confronting the country, the Congress, the administration and the Republican party, is what you might call a practical optimist. Instead of defining the term, it is preferable to describe how it fits him. You have seen people who, when something horrible plumps down on the road in front of them, take a negative view of it, give up by the wayside saying: "It cannot be overcome." Well, that is not his way. Then you have seen others in the same circumstance who profess to ignore the obstruction, declaring: "It is nothing; the Lord will remove it, and I need not worry." That is not his way, either. He believes in the invincibility of progress, internationally, politically and economically, and sets about to find means of starting on the path, through, around or over the obstacle or difficulty in partial, if not complete, fashion. He does not think perfection can be attained, neither does he hold that mortal man is excused from striving to effect a measure of approach to it because of the compass of the difficulties intervening. Which is probably the type of the majority of Americans.—N. O. Messinger, in the Washington Post.

AN OPINION THAT IS WORTH WHILE.

Major General Leonard Wood expressed his conviction that the present United States-Japanese situation holds no possibilities of war, in his address at the dinner of the American-Japanese society in honor of himself and W. Cameron Forbes in Tokyo. "It would be a terrible reflection on modern civilization if two great nations like Japan and the United States could not meet at a conference board and settle all or nearly all of their difficulties," declared General Wood. "Truly great and vital issues may arise, calling on all our resources of understanding and diplomacy for solution, but the present situation contains nothing justifying even the suspicion that such an issue will arise. Recently there has been a good deal of loose and foolish talk about American-Japanese trouble, but all this is nonsense. Our relations are not strained and they are going to continue good. Three and one-half centuries ago, it is recorded, the emperor of Japan levied a tribute on the Philippines. It is sure that Japan will again exact from the Philippines a much heavier tribute in increased returns on friendly commerce between the two island races. America wants to build up commerce, but always welcomes open and fair competition among nations. We are sure you ask no more than that."

RIPPLING RHYMES THE MOVIES.

A million children, every night, behold the movie actors: in education, wrong or right, the films are mighty factors. And so the famous movie folk have influence unmeasured; their every move, their every joke, in youthful hearts are treasured. So they should make their lives so clean they'll sparkle in their beauty, and not seem angels on the screen, and demons when off duty. As artists true they should appear, and not as blooming smarties; they should cut out the booze and beer and all the frenzied parties. My little Willie goes tonight to see a movie story; the heroine is blithe and bright, all smiling in her glory; but someone whispers to the lad, "She goes her gaudy courses as though she hadn't whipped her dad, and gained fourteen divorces." And Willie in admiring mood regards the hero's capers till Whisper says, "He's often stewed—I read it in the papers." Then little Willie toddles home, his sentiments unspoken, but mournful thoughts are in his dome—his idols have been broken. The Bluebeard door has been unlocked, one glance therein suffices; and little kids should not be shocked by tales of tawdry vices.

The bell for the court house tower was today placed in its lofty position. The bell weighs 4,500 pounds.

Mr. Daniel Stewart, who purchased the old Newkirk property on West Third street, has had the old structure torn away and is preparing to erect a handsome new residence on its site.

Mr. Charles F. Luther has tendered his resignation as superintendent of the D. & X. traction lines, which starts anew the rumor that Mr. J. W. Neff of this

Work has begun today on the trench in which will be placed the heating pipes connecting the heating station with the court house.

Styles BY LENORE

PARIS. Unless one has occasion to wear formal evening clothes frequently, it is infinitely more practical to use as a wrap the type of model which is as suitable for daylight hours as it is smart for evening. And for this the styles of the season are admirably adapted.

At Lucien Lelong's in Paris there were shown many wraps of the dolman type, with loose hanging backs, wide kimono sleeves and deep shawl collars of fur—a style liked by many women and suitable for both day and evening if made of perline, velour de laine or velvet, simply treated. Rich, cloak-like lines are featured in other collections, while at Carra's I found this attractive coat whose lines are easily adaptable for both day and evening, if the colors are properly subdued. It is made in taupe velvet with turquoise embroidery and taupe fur. In gray velour de laine with self-color embroidery, with just perhaps a trace of color, it would be very beautiful.

IT'S A GRAND OLD REMEDY

You can't keep strong and well without sleep. Whether your rest is broken by a painful hacking cough or just an annoying tickling in the throat, the system becomes weakened and rundown. Mrs. K. D. Drake, Childs, Md., writes: "After an attack of the flu I was left with a severe cough. Nothing relieved me till I used Foley's Kidney and Urinary Tract Remedy. It covers irritated membranes with a healing and soothing coating, loosens phlegm and clears air passages. Sackre & Hemphill."

GOLF, THE GREATEST SPORT

I was talking with Tom Bendelow the other day and he gave me some figures on the spread of golf as a sport in America. Bendelow has been building golf courses so long that he must know by this time just how every blade of grass on each fairway should be adjusted. Tom is said to be the oldest golf course architect in America.

The figures he has arrived at are surprising, and yet in a way they are not. But it had not before occurred to me that the sport had taken such a great hold in this country. I started in as a caddy when I was more of an exclusive pastime, and the game has developed without my having been conscious of it because, no doubt, I have been so close to it, so absorbed in it.

Bendelow said to me that within five years—maybe in three years—nearly every town in America of 5,000 population or more will have its golf course. Practically every town of 10,000 population or more has a course now.

But it was his estimates on number of people, men and women, boys and girls, who play golf that were greatly interesting.

His estimates reveal that 307 people now play golf to one who plays baseball, and that 882 people now play golf to one who plays tennis.

Football is one of our popular sports, too, but the estimate today is that 1,856 people play golf to one who plays the rugby game.

These estimates, it should be explained are for people more than 18 years of age. Possibly the average would still favor golf if the boys and girls who now give so much enthusiasm to the sport were included.

I have no way of checking up such figures, but my own estimates of the popularity of golf, together with some of the factors that enter into its wide spread popularity, makes me think, readily enough, that the estimates are accurate.

Witness, for instance, the development of the public links. Hardly a big city is without one or more. Going to and from the recent St. Louis tournament matches I pass a splendid public course, and it was thronged each time I passed it. Chicago now has public courses available on each side of the city, and still more are building, to be ready next summer.

The Lincoln Park course, Chicago, just admitted to membership in the United States Golf association, is a 9-hole course, but the attendants there told me one day recently when I played there that approximately 700 players teed off each day in the summer months.

One of the potent reasons for the growing enthusiasm for golf is that it is a game that anyone, young or old, can play. It is equally enjoyable for men or women. It comes into the enthusiasts' life too, at a time when more strenuous sports are no longer for him or her. That is, the man who played baseball, tennis or football in his younger years can take up golf with a greater relish perhaps than he ever found himself possessed of for his other diversions.

Golf is not "an old man's game." It is not a sport for the millionaire. It is the great universal amateur sport. It is well that more and more people are taking to it, for it means the out of doors, oxygen, glowing cheeks, neglected muscles used, better health. In short, golf is a sure short-cut to a better citizenship. May its popularity ever grow

FEW HIGH CORN YIELDS THIS YEAR

A bad year for corn will cut members of Ohio's "100 Bushel Corn Club" to around half of the 18 who qualified last year, predicted field men of the College of Agriculture, the Ohio State University, who have been measuring yields of the 84 contestants in the 1921 contest. The best average contest yields run between 80 and 90 bushels of corn to the acre, they say.

At present, only one farmer is officially credited with having raised as much as 100 bushels of air-dried shelled-corn to the acre on a 10-acre field. He is Harvey G. Hammond of Union Township, Knox county, and his yield is 104.11 bushels to the acre.

HOLD UP FINAL SETTLEMENT OF BANK'S AFFAIRS

Settlement of the Houston bank affairs, at South Charlestown, is being held up pending disposition of a claim of the village of South Charlestown against the Houston estate for a sum aggregating $30,000.

The village has filed an application in Clark County Common Pleas Court for an order of the court to determine whether the legacies given in the will of Leon H. Houston and Edwin H. Houston shall be exempt from the rule set forth by the court recently that the trust estates are subject to payment of claims against the Houston bank.

CENTRAL HIGH WINS FROM HILLSBORO BY 21-0 SCORE FRIDAY

Coach Kathernman's Central High gridders romped away with their fifth victory of the season Friday, defeating Hillsboro High School 21-0, on the local field.

The visitors' only activity came in the first quarter, after Douthett had recovered Boxwell's short kick-off. The three first downs made here were the biggest portion of their gains, only one other first down being negotiated by them, through a pass, Lucas to Foley in the third quarter. The pass was the only successful one they attempted.

The locals scored first after four minutes of play in the second quarter after a goalward march in which Boxwell, Randall and McCallister played conspicuous parts. In two attempts Boxwell picked up 30-yards and then 12, and his final effort put the oval over the whitewash. He also contributed the point from goal. The next score came three minutes later in the same quarter when McCallister contributed two yards after Cline had punted to Fuller on Hillsboro's 40. Boxwell added 12, and McCallister raced around end for 22 yards for the touchdown. Boxwell making the goal attempt good. The final score came in the last quarter. Hillsboro held for downs on their own 14, from where Cline punted weakly to McCallister. After McCallister was thrown for a loss, the ball went to the visitors, and Lucas picked up 8 on a fake pass. Cline lost four however, and was forced to punt to Fuller on the 50-yard mark. A pass McCallister to Purdom, picked up 20 yards. Boxwell added four and another pass failed. A third pass, Boxwell to Purdom brought the ball within inches of the goal, and McCallister toted it across. Boxwell again adding the goal attempt for the final score.

The blue and white team, negotiated 12 first downs, many of them erman's team used six forward being made up in long gains. Kath-passes, three of them being successful. The visitors made four first downs, three of them in the first quarter, and attempted four passes, only one being good.

SHE TOOK HER FRIEND'S ADVICE

Now is the Best of Health Because she took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Mich.—"I was not feeling well for several years and never was able to eat any breakfast and always complained of a headache or tired feeling which at times required me to stop my work and rest. I have never had a physician and never took any medicine for it until your was recommended to me by a neighbor whom I used to visit frequently. I took four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am in the best of health and enjoy doing my work every moment of the day. It surely put life and 'pep' into my system."—Mrs. L. M. DARRAS, 46 Howard St., Detroit, Michigan.

It is not always in business that a woman is forced to give up her work on account of ill health. It is quite as often the woman who does her own work at home. When backaches and headaches drive out all ambition, when that bearing-down sensation attacks you, when you are nervous and blue, the one great help for such ailments is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ANTIOCH DEFEATS CEDARVILLE FRIDAY BY CLOSE SCORE

Antioch College made its gridiron debut for the first time in years at Yellow Springs Friday afternoon by defeating Cedarville College, another new team in football circles, 7 to 0. While it was the first game for Antioch College in many years, Cedarville, which also took up football for the first time in many years this season, has already played one game, being defeated by Rio Grande at Gallipolis several weeks ago.

Only four men on the Cedarville eleven had ever played football before this season, all four being former Central high school stars of this city. Currie, of this quartette, full back and captain of the blue and white eleven at one time, was the outstanding star of Cedarville's attack, Friday.

Antioch's lone score came in the initial quarter, and within about two minutes of play. Unable to gain at any time during the game through straight football, the Yellow Springs gridders resorted to the forward pass in the first few minutes, and several well executed loiters spelled the downfall of the Cedarville lads. Currie was forced to retire in the last quarter with an injured leg, Collins taking his place. The lineup and summary:

SUFFERS FRACTURES WHEN HORSE THROWS HIM TO GROUND

A plunging horse, which he was leading from the stable threw Alton Hurley, aged 20, so violently to the ground, that the young man sustained fractures of his shoulder blade, his left upper arm and four ribs.

The accident occurred Friday at the farm of Al Beam, step father of young Hurley. The farm is located between Lumberton and New Burlington. Dr. R. L. Haines was called. The injured young man is at the Beam home.

Al Beam, step-father of the young man has just recovered from a fracture of the arm caused by the back firing of an automobile he was cranking. BASEBALL GAME SUNDAY ANNOUNCED

They are still playing off the county baseball championship in Greene County, due to the persistence of the Paintersville nine, which is now rising to claim the pennant.

Paintersville's defeat of Bell's-look last week has led to its belief that it can also trim the sales of county champions, the Yellow Springs Athletics. The Athletics have accepted the challenge of the Paintersville team for a game which will be played at Yellow Springs, Sunday afternoon.

Baseball fans, who have not yet relinquished the season to football, are anticipating an interesting game.

SAY NO PROFIT IN SHEEP THIS SEASON

Even the most skillful farmers, exercising every possible care and saving, have been unable to make costs on sheep this year, due to a low market for wool.

Rural economists of the Ohio State University announce this conclusion after examining the books of a group of wool-growers in Muskingum County, men who agreed a year ago to keep strict farm records, under supervision of the University specialists. Check and compilation of individual farm returns at the end of a year show an average cost of 47 cents a pound for wool.

As usual, individual costs exhibit a wide range, according to the kind of stock kept and various methods of flock handling. In this case, however, no farmer of the selected six who

HENRY FORD SLIPS THROUGH FAYETTE

Rumors that Henry Ford will extend the Grasshopper division of his Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad, were revived recently when the car magnate passed through Washington C. H.

So quietly did Ford slip through the Fayette county metropolis that it was not known for several days. He did not stop. His visit to this part of the state is now taken by some as an indication that he is still considering plans of extending the Grasshopper division, which passes through one corner of Greene County in order to connect with his tractor factory at Hamilton and with other roads leading into the coal field of West Virginia and Kentucky.

DINNERSTORIES

Some men never let an opportunity slip. They make the most of every chance, as, for instance, a certain organ-grinder who once played his organ outside the house of Mascagni, the famous composer. Mascagni is often driven wild by hearing his music "murdered" on piano-organs, and on this occasion he left his house and interviewed the street musician.

He did not send him away. He merely took the handle of the instrument, turned it around faster and quickened the time.

The organ-grinder smiled his thanks. Next day he again appeared in the street. This time his organ bore a large placard on which was inscribed: "Pupil of Mascagni."

A man the other day denied that John Bunyan was the author of "The Pilgrim's Progress." Being vehemently contradicted, he thus replied:

"No," said he, "I question even if he contributed to the work, for it is impossible that a bunion could contribute to any pilgrim's progress."

A school teacher was using her most ingratiating manner to make the subject of physical geography attractive to her pupils.

"Now, can anyone tell me what shape the world is?" she pursued her Socratic method.

A dirty-faced urchin arose rapidly as his hand unfurled to the summons:

"Please, ma'am," he said, "my father says it's in a hell of a shape."

When the once-wealthy Mrs. Blank parted from her husband and decided to work for her living, she became a housemaid. Her first employer was a woman who, in other days, had been one of her servants. It seemed a queer thing to do, but "the wretch always worried me by giving me notice," said the lady in reduced circumstances viciously; "she must have done it half a dozen times. So I took the position—to give her notice, the wretch! And I did it, too, after the first week."

A prominent New York debutante recently ordered "four seats on the aisle," at the theater. When her party arrived at the performance they were surprised to find themselves arranged in a column instead of a row. Nothing daunted, the debutante turned to a bored, middle-aged man next to her. Surely he would not mind changing with her friend in front.

"I beg your pardon," she said politely.

No reply. He must be deaf. She repeated louder.

Still no reply.

"I beg your pardon," she said, bumping his elbow.

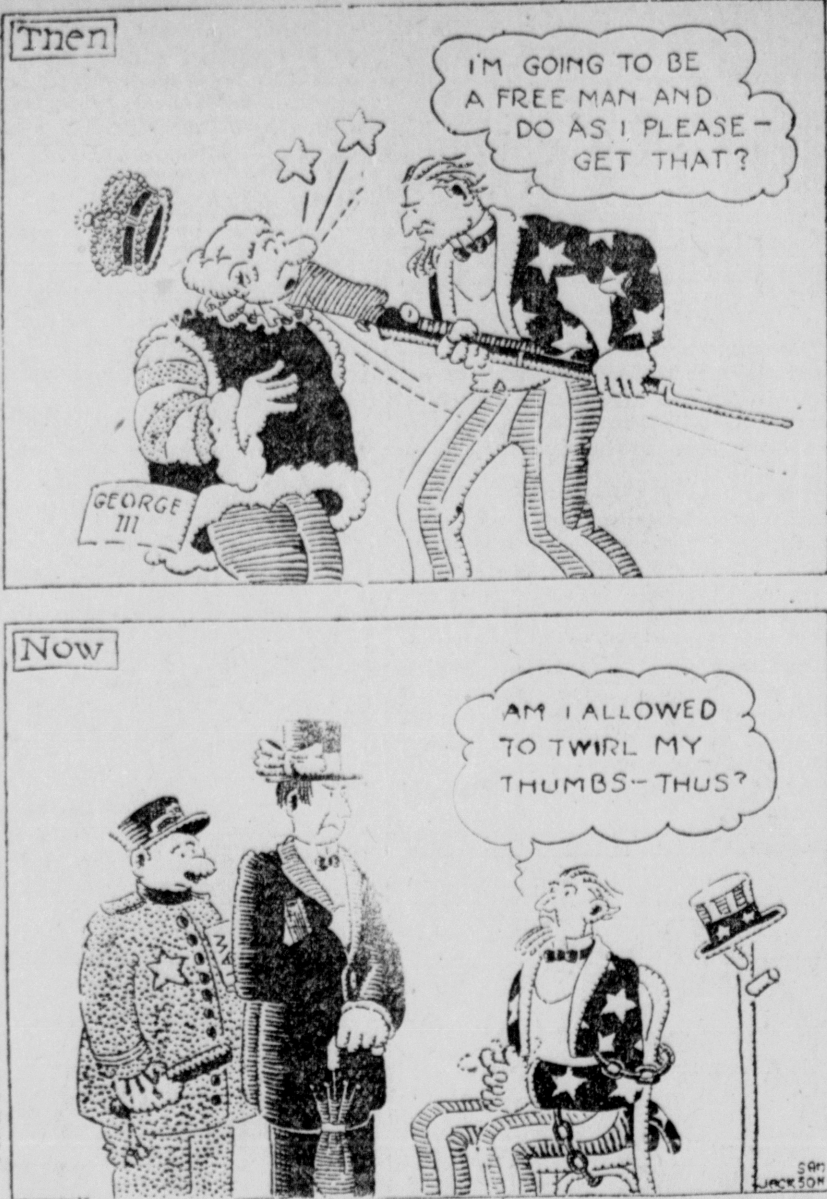

He took out a pencil and wrote on his program:

"That's my wife on the other side of me. Safety first."

"That's my favorite hen," remarked the back-garden poultry farmer. "She can always be depended on to lay an egg a day."

"Gosh!" piped the neighbor contractor. "Lays one a day? What a bricklayer she would have made."

RESIDENCE ENTERED FRIDAY EVENING AND MONEY TAKEN

Fred Saenger, East Main street meat dealer, reported to the police, Saturday morning, that his residence over his meat shop, had been entered Friday night, and $40 taken.

The burglar effected an entrance by climbing onto a one-story roof in the rear, and entering the upper portion of the building through a window. The money was taken from a bureau drawer and belonged to Mrs. Saenger. No other valuables were disturbed.

The robbery occurred while Mr. and Mrs. Saenger were attending a picture show. They returned at 8:45 o'clock, and although there were indications that the house had been entered, the loss of money was not discovered until Saturday morning.

The theft led to a warning issued by Chief of Police Graham, Saturday morning, against leaving valuables in a place where they can be found by sneak thieves, when there is no one at home. "There will be a lot of this sort of thing this winter, with many people out of work," said Chief Graham "and everyone leaving their house empty, should see that money and valuables are kept out of reach of such thieves."

Mrs. Orville McDonald, of the Stone road, reported that her home had been entered during the absence of members of the family several days ago but nothing was taken.

SOUTHERN OHIO TO TERRACE ITS FARMS AFTER EUROPEAN IDEA

Terraced farms, familiar sights to travellers in rural Europe and Asia, may become a permanent part of the Ohio landscape, if certain demonstration experiments just started in southwestern Ohio prove out.

During studies of erosion losses, in which it was determined that 80,000 acres of Ohio farmland have been practically ruin by washing and gullying, engineers of the Agricultural Extension Service, the Ohio State University became familiar with a broad-base type of terrace known as the Mangum, successfully used in the south.

At a demonstration held late in September on a Hamilton County farm, the first such terracing was accomplished in Ohio. Fifteen acres of hill land was protected in one day by three men, a team, a road-scraper, and a plow. The cost was $30. Agricultural agents and farmers from Brown, Butler, and Warren Counties attended the demonstration.

If the plan works, say the University engineers, it will give means of saving at least 10,000 acres in these counties, likely otherwise to be a total loss within 20 years.

ARE YOU GIVING A HALLOWE'EN PARTY THIS YEAR?

Verily life is what we make it. If we make it jolly, it is a happy life; if we never seek diversion of the company of friends, it is bound to be dreary. If any woman who is reading this has never given a party—or doesn't give them frequently—I want to advise her strongly to begin giving them right now, starting with a Halloween party on the 31st.

"I don't give them because I can't afford to give parties," I know some of you are saying, in protest. The kind of party I refer to, however, is not the expensive kind; it is the kind that is in the reach of all. If you can't afford streamers of black and yellow crepe paper to decorate with, then bring in some autumn leaves (and, if possible, cornstalks), and dress up the house with these. That takes care of the atmosphere of your Halloween party.

Refreshments are the next consideration. These of course do require some monetary output—but they need not be elaborate refreshments. Just sandwiches, fruit punch, macaroons, nuts and homemade candies are all that are necessary. The money for these may be saved in some way—by walking to save carfare, for instance, or by going to the movies a little less frequently or by going without some other luxury which every one of us indulges in. I know of a woman who stopped having her daily paper delivered for a while, in order to save for a party! (I believe she went to the public library every day and read the newspapers there.) There is always some way, to save for a definite purpose such as this, if we only think it out.

When we have our decorations planned and our refreshments money saved up, the rest is smooth sailing. For Games—glorious, youth-recalling games—will be our third and last consideration. Games don't cost anything, and yet they are the best part of a party. If you engineer your guests into a merry whirl of games, they won't know what the decorations are nor what they have eaten at the refreshments hour; they will be having too good a time.

Not Monday I am going to devote this entire column to directions for games suitable to play on Halloween. Today I will give only this one: Ghostly Shadows: Hang a large white sheet in a double doorway. Have a lamp behind it, quite a ways back. One-half the number of guests will sit in front of this sheet, as "audience." The other half of the number will retire behind the sheet and will in turn, put on a high, pointed witch's cap, long false hair made out of a piece of rope unravelled out, and a piece of white material around the neck to hang down like a cape. These actors will take turns standing between the light and the back part of the sheet and distorting their facial features, doing with the hands whatever he or she pleases. The more grotesque the shadow on the sheet appears, the better. The audience must guess who it is behind the sheet. When all have had their turn, then the other half of the crowd must be the actors and the first actors must be the audience and do the guessing.

THE NEW GENERATION

By Jane Phelps

CHAPTER 70

It was typical of Craig Forrester that he had ignored what Margaret had said as to Joan's scoring, that his turn must wait. He realized the tumult of mind the woman he had loved was in. He would do nothing to add to it. If at times Margaret misunderstood, wondering why he accepted her decision so calmly she gave no sign.

She had visited Greenwich Village with Joan and inspected the studio, one high up in the building, and reached only by climbing many stairs. But the view was delightful. The place was fairly clean, and could easily be made attractive. So Margaret in no way dampened Joan's enthusiasm, but insisted she be allowed to help her fix up the place.

"I won't have a lot of gimcracks around!" Joan declared.

"All right, dear, no gimcracks is the order."

Margaret really enjoyed herself for the next few days. She and Joan seemed to be nearer each other, to have overcome that feeling of separation, of strangeness which had inhibited them both when together. It was not until Margaret met Dean Tennant on the stairs that she felt anxious over Joan's move.

"Hello, Dean! You remember my mother?" Joan asked.

"Certainly!" he extended a not too clean hand.

"Dean has the studio opposite mine," Joan mentioned.

A sick feeling assailed Margaret. Would her Joan, her darling daughter become intrigued with a man of Tennant's type? It was almost unbelievable. Yet no one knew Joan's headstrong nature as did Margaret. If she decided she wanted Tennant she would have him. No one could prevent it.

"I must be clever with her as I was when she was a child," Margaret said to herself. I must not antagonize her. Tennant she thought of not at all. He simply intrigued Joan by his rather common good looks and his pretensions. She was not yet old enough, nor experienced enough to tell the real from the dress.

When she left Joan that afternoon she stopped at Janet Walters instead of going directly home.

"Janet, you have got to help me," she said.

"Of course, but how?"

"When does Ted come home?"

Glad. He is such a manly fellow, Margaret, so absolutely the gentleman under all his nonsense, so to be trusted. I am very fortunate, I was afraid he might need a stronger hand than mine as he grew up. But this new generation Margaret, they are so capable!"

It was strange, Margaret thought, how everyone was talking of the "new generation." Craig Forrester, Janet, both gave expression to the thought. And they were different, far different from her generation, even though she were not old.

"I know! But I need your help. Joan has gone to live in a studio in the Village. Her nearest neighbor, in fact he is across the hall is Dean Tennant, that young fellow we met at the Purple Pup."

"But, Margaret! Why did you allow her to live down there?"

"It is too late to ask me why I allow Joan to do anything. But I want you, and Ted, to help me. She had an idea of atmosphere, that the Village people, even the unsuccessful ones are really the only people worth while. That Dean Tennant with his soiled linen, his frayed coat sleeves is picturesque, I want Ted to disabuse her mind. I want him to let her see that a man may be clever and clean. That a fellow may have a different attitude toward women than the one some of the fellows she knows affect. I want her to see for herself that life isn't just 'atmosphere.' Margaret laughed almost hysterically. Then added:

"I think I should have gone mad had I heard that word again. Atmosphere, and personality. They are the two stock phrases of the people with whom Joan is associating. I can't drag her away by the hair of the head. All I can do is to have some young man with the right outlook upon life, a man who, while attractive, is sensible, show that life is a serious matter, not a question of exaggerated ego."

SPRINGFIELD COACH WATCHES CONTEST

Coach Maheny of Springfield high school, and several of his backfield men were on the sidelines at Gatch field, Friday afternoon, when Central high defeated Hillsboro 21 to 0.

The visit of the Clark county mentor and his athletes was undoubtedly to get a line on the play of the local eleven, which will meet Springfield November 19, in this city. The game is the most important of the season.

The Springfield coach learned little from the play of the local eleven, however, as Coach Katherman's charges were not pressed to win and uncovered very little beyond straight football. Pence, who played at left guard for the Hillsboro team is a son of State Senator G. G. O. Pence of this district, author of the state anti-glare law.
